
All hands are facing up during the internet game

Posted by Dimensions11 - 2008/07/15 20:23

See attached file/image.

All cards turned face-up during an internet game.

=====

Re:All hands are facing up during the internet game

Posted by Dimensions11 - 2008/07/15 20:26

can't upload the image file.....don't know why?

The file is in jpg format and it is only 89KB in size.

If still want to see, send me an email address and I can email the file to you.

=====

Re:All hands are facing up during the internet game

Posted by Dimensions11 - 2008/07/18 19:30

<http://www.pokerth.net/images/fbfiles/images/Untitled2.png>

=====

Re:All hands are facing up during the internet gam

Posted by lotodore - 2008/08/17 17:31

The cards of the other players are not available for PokerTH until they are revealed by the server. So if this happens (meaning if cards are shown), these are the cards of the previous round, and it is a display error.

=====

Re:All hands are facing up during the internet game

Posted by Dimensions11 - 2008/09/14 21:32

Hi,

I am sure this problem was caused by the internet management software that Comcast are secretly using to regulate the internet traffic.....

I recently discontinued my Comcast Broadband service and switched back to AT&T DSL and all the problems are just gone.

When I was using Comcast broadband, I have to click reload...reload...reload and reload on FireFox before I could get any webpages to display correctly. There were so many errors of "network timeout" or "website not found"

Damn you Comcast.

=====